BELIEVE VAG SET FIRE TO VACANT HOME

$2,500 Conflagration At Malcolm Farm, Near Table Rock, Monday Eve.

NEW OWNER WAS READY, APRIL 1

Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, destroyed a two-story vacant house on the former Malcolm farm, near Table Rock, shortly after 8 o'clock, Monday evening. The loss is estimated at $2,500, partly covered by insurance. The place is believed to have been set on fire, either accidentally or intentionally, by a vagrant. A short time before the fire was discovered William Stallsmith, who lives about an eighth of a mile away, is reported to have seen a light moving about in the house.

After the blaze was discovered and persons in the vicinity of Table Rock reached the scene, the house was a mass of flames and beyond saving. No calls were put in for fire companies, and the house burned to the ground.

2-Story Structure
The house was a two-story log structure, covered with weather-board, and was in good condition.

The Malcolm farm moved from the farm last November after being sold out by Sheriff G. D. Morrison. The Federal farm and bank purchased the seventy-five acre farm, and, according to reports, had resold the place to John Miller, of near Table Rock, who was to take possession April 1.

The house was on the road leading from Stone Jug hill to Centre Mills, and was about a mile and a half from the Harrisburg road.

No other buildings were endangered by the flames. The wind was blowing away from the barn and other outbuildings at the time.

Arctic Fliers' Bodies Rest on American Soil

Nome, Alaska, March 4 (AP)—The bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, Arctic fliers, rested on American soil today. They were brought across Bering Sea by airplane from the motor ship Nanuk, ice-bound near North Cape, Siberia.

The two bodies were taken to Teller, Alaska, yesterday in a plane piloted by Ed Young. Two other pilots were passengers. The Russian aviators who took part in the rescue work followed in another plane.

Fliers of three nations took part in the search which was hampered by accident, blizzards and the long Arctic nights.

The aerial cortege will continue as soon as possible its flight to Fairbanks. The bodies will then be taken by train and shipped to Seattle.

Lieutenant Eielson will be buried at Hattin, N. D., and Borland's body will be sent to Mount Vernon, Washington. Eielson's father, Ole Eielson, and Borland's young widow will accompany the bodies to the United States from Alaska.

Eielson's reputation was made largely at the time when as pilot for George Hubert Wilkins he made a flight across the top of the world from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen, in 1928.

MAN IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

Son Finds Luther W. Mehring, Of Taneytown, Dead in Bed; Was in Good Health.

Luther William Mehring, a well-known citizen of Taneytown, was found dead in his bed Monday morning at 5:30 o'clock by his son, Luther D. Mehring, who went to call his father at that time but was unable to arouse him. Dr. C. M. Benner was summoned and upon arrival pronounced Mr. Mehring dead. It is believed that he passed away about thirty minutes before his son called him.

Mr. Mehring appeared in his usual health Sunday morning, having taught his Sunday School class at Trinity Lutheran church and attended the morning worship. During the afternoon and evening he complained of not feeling well.

Mr. Mehring was 73 years of age. He was a son of the late David and Elmira Mehring. He was married twice. His first wife was Miss Sarah Cathryn Spangler, and by this union one daughter, Miss Charlotte E. Mehring, Littlestown, survives. His second wife was Miss Leah Ellen Reinhold. By this union two children survive, Luther D., at home, and Dr. Perry L. Mehring, Philadelphia. He is also survived by one brother, David M. Mehring, Taneytown, and one sister, Mrs. Harry Beit, Philadelphia.

Mr. Mehring formerly was a farmer but moved to Taneytown about twenty years ago. During the time he lived in Taneytown he served several times as a member of the town council and also was a director of the Taneytown Savings bank. The deceased was a life-long member of Trinity Lutheran church and at the time of his death was an elder of the church. He taught the men's Bible class for some twenty years.

Accepts Vice Presidency And Cashier Position With Lemoyne Institution.

L. Willis Appler, East Middle street, who today resigned as assistant cashier of the Gettysburg National bank, announced that he has accepted the position of vice president and cashier of the West Shore National bank, now being erected at Lemoyne.

Mr. Appler, who has held his present position since January 1, 1927, when the Lincoln Trust company was merged with the Gettysburg National bank, will move to Lemoyne some time in May. He expects to leave his position here between May 1 and 15.

His resignation was accepted with regrets by the board of the local bank at its weekly meeting this morning.

Mr. Appler, who formerly worked at the Lemoyne Trust company, the only other bank in the West Shore town, came to Gettysburg in April, 1924, as assistant treasurer of the Lincoln Trust company.

While working at Lemoyne, Mr. Appler was secretary of the Lemoyne Trust company for seven years. He also was president of the school board and president of the fire company there, and he has a host of friends in Lemoyne, who joined with officers of the bank in asking that he be given a position when it opens.

Is New Institution
The West Shore National bank was incorporated by the comptroller of the currency February 18, with a capital of $100,000 and a surplus of $20,000. A new building, 35 by 60 feet, is being erected in Lemoyne for the new enterprise. The bank is expected to open about June 1.

Mr. Appler, a native of Adams county, took a three-year course in finance at the University of Pennsylvania.

He has been active in St. James Lutheran church here since moving to Gettysburg. He is treasurer of the church, assistant superintendent of the Sunday school and former president of the Men's Brotherhood.

MALE CAST IN BENEFIT PLAY

Home Talent To Be Presented Thursday And Friday In High School Auditorium.

With an all-male cast, recruited from the ranks of Gettysburg's business and professional men, "The Dream of a Clown," a farce comedy, will be given at the Gettysburg high school Thursday and Friday evenings. The show is sponsored by the Parent-Teachers' association for the benefit of the high school library.

Persons who have attended rehearsals say the show promises to be one of the funniest ever given in Gettysburg. The heavy comedy part has been entrusted to Dr. R. D. Wickerham, local dentist, who plays the part of "Abraham Goldberg."

But the comedy furnished by Doctor Wickerham is only part of the humor in which the production abounds. The spectacle of staid and dignified businessmen in short skirts, dancing "the light fantastic" is guaranteed to produce one laugh after another.

Rehearsals have been held nightly, and Miss Louise Constantine, who is directing the show, reports the show to be well under way for its premier on Thursday evening. Seventy local men are participating in the production.

Reserved seats were placed on sale at Shuman's store, Baltimore street, this morning, and many seats were marked off for both nights.

Among those who are taking part in the performance are Mark K. Eckert, Ralph Z. Oyler, Elton G. Boyer, C. R. Wolff, C. W. Cook, George P. Black, J. P. Oyler, Dr. C. N. Gitt, C. E. Tawney, John W. Brehm, Wayne M. Keet, Harry L. Snyder, George Martin, C. A. Stoner, Calvin Gilbert, H. B. Bender, Dr. Elliott Cheney, Brady Sefton, Herbert L. Grimm.

Air Tour Will Include Town
25 Planes Expected To Visit Gettysburg On Swing Across Pennsylvania.

A mammoth air tour, the first ever held in Pennsylvania, is being sponsored by the Aero club of Pittsburgh and the Philadelphia Aero club, from Memorial Day, May 30, to June 8, to be known as the Pennsylvania Goodwill Air tour. Airplanes valued at almost a million dollars in the aggregate, manned by pilots of state and national reputation are expected to participate. Not only will the tour bring out a great variety of new and unusual models but will demonstrate the practicability of flying of all types in Pennsylvania.

The tour will start at Pittsburgh and proceed east through northern Pennsylvania. Turning at Philadelphia it will follow a western course through southern Pennsylvania ending at Pittsburgh on the last day. Although no definite arrangements have been made for the exact route of the tour, the following stops are under contemplation: McKeesport, Butler, Oil City, Erie, Bradford, Williamsport, Hazleton, Wilkes-Barre, Allentown, Bethlehem, Philadelphia, Norristown, Gettysburg, Harrisburg, Altoona, Johnstown, Uniontown, Pittsburgh. Stops at these cities will depend largely on the landing facilities, their distance apart and the co-operation of airport authorities, the Chambers of Commerce and other interested in aviation. The Goodwill tour is under the management of John H. Witherow, Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust building, Philadelphia.

Twenty-five planes are expected to participate in the tour. Upon arriving at a local field, it is planned to have the tour entries stage an air circus, consisting of flight demonstrations, stunt flying, parachute jumping and landing to a mark. The public will be given an opportunity to closely inspect all types of planes on the tour and to see them in action.

W. MD. JUNIOR HELD IN JAIL FOR POISONING

Student Charged With Being An Accessory After The Fact In Murder.

FATHER ALSO HELD IN DEATH

Westminster, Md., March 4—Roy Edwards, 20, was arrested Monday afternoon on the campus of Western Maryland college on a charge of being an accessory after the fact in the alleged murder of William T. Keefer, 70, at Barkhill, December 10.

The youth, a junior at the college, is the son of Paul W. Edwards, 48, who, on February 25, was held by a coroner's jury on a charge of murder in the death of the elderly farmer, his foster parent.

Warrant Is Issued
In a warrant issued by Magistrate George E. Benson, on information supplied by Sheriff George C. Fowble, young Edwards is accused of having "feloniously comforted, received, harbored, secreted and maintained the said Paul W. Edwards, then and there well knowing him to have feloniously killed and murdered William T. Keefer."

After his arrest the youth was committed to the same jail in Westminster at which his father is awaiting the May term of the grand jury.

Hearing Slated Today
He had been there only a short while, however, when David J. Hesson, former state senator from Carroll county, a brother-in-law of the boy's mother, posted $2,000 bail for his appearance at a hearing before Justice Benson at 10 a. m.

Young Edwards was greatly surprised at his arrest and said he was at school the day the alleged poisoning took place.

Authorities here, it is said, continually have attempted to get the boy to make a statement since the arrest of his father. On the advice of counsel engaged for the father, he is said to have refused.

Quizzing Believed Aim
It is believed the authorities made the move to get the boy into custody in order to question him at length. The warrant on which he was arrested was dated March 1.

The charge against the elder Edwards was made after thirty minutes' deliberation by a coroner's jury.

Arsenic Held Found
Edwards was arrested at his home in Coopersville, near Taneytown, after an examination of Mr. Keefer's viscera by Baltimore chemists. Arsenic was found, according to the chemists' report.

It is charged by the state that Edwards placed arsenic in oatmeal served for breakfast at the Keefer home the morning of December 10. Edwards had stayed overnight and left before breakfast that morning, according to Theodore F. Brown, state's attorney.

Became Violently Ill
After the breakfast, investigators said, Mr. and Mrs. Keefer became violently ill. The husband died early in the afternoon and the wife, who is 77, recovered and went to Coopersville to live with the Edwards family.

$2,000 FIRE AT SUMMIT HOME
Prompt response and cool-headed fire fighting by members of the Blue Ridge Summit Fire company saved the frame semi-bungalow, owned by Dr. H. C. Bridges and occupied by J. H. Banks Bartholow and family, at Blue Ridge Summit, from being destroyed by fire last Saturday afternoon.

The fire is thought to have originated from hot ashes in the cellar. Mrs. Ardon K. Barton, who lives next door to the Bartholow home, noticed smoke pouring from the house about 12:15 p. m., notified the telephone operator at the Summit exchange who sounded the alarm. The Bartholows were not at home at the time of the fire.

Although hampered by smoke the fire fighters, under the direction of Fire Marshal Jesse S. Thompson, were able to keep the flames confined to the cellar, and within a few minutes had the fire under control, but it required nearly an hour to entirely extinguish the flames.

Members of the Boy Scout Troop 11 of the Blue Ridge Summit removed furniture from the building and assisted the firemen by carrying water for recharging the tanks of the chemical apparatus.

The damage from fire and smoke was estimated at $2,000, covered by insurance.

REV. DR. SEIBER

LOCAL PASTOR ACTIVE AT 80

Rev. Dr. L. L. Seiber Observes His Eightieth Birthday Today; In Good Health.

The Rev. Dr. L. L. Seiber, who today quietly celebrated his eightieth birthday anniversary at his home in the Tipton apartments, East Middle street, attributes the almost perfect condition of his health to life-long total abstinence from tobacco and liquor.

Unusually active and alert for one of four-score years, the veteran retired minister fairly radiates good health, all of which, he believes, resulted from refraining from the use of tobacco, chewing or smoking and drinking nothing stronger than water.

As robust as in his prime, the Rev. Dr. Seiber has retained all his faculties, and he walks with a spring in his gait that belies his eighty years. Through his eight sons and daughters, his grandchildren and great-grandchildren, the veteran Lutheran minister and former evangelist keeps abreast with young folks and their varied interests.

College Grad.
Rev. Dr. Seiber was born near McAllisterville, youngest son of the late Abraham and Fannie Seiber. From boyhood, he showed a keen interest in school, and a desire for knowledge inspired him to take a course at the Missionary Institute at Selmsgrove, near Susquehanna University. After a year's preparation there, he entered Gettysburg college from which he was graduated in the class of 1873.

While attending the Missionary Institute, the young student decided to give his life to the ministry, and after graduating from college here, entered the local Lutheran theological seminary from which he was graduated in 1876. The day after he was graduated from seminary, the new minister was married to Miss Josephine Rothrock, of Mifflintown.

8 Wrestling Bouts Tonight
Captain McReynolds has his group of Orange and Blue grapplers ready to tackle the strong aggregation of matmen of Waynesburg college in the Eddie Plank gymnasium at 8 o'clock tonight.

The local wrestling mentor has developed the Gettysburg collegians rapidly during the past six weeks and today Gettysburg enjoys an enviable reputation among colleges and universities where wrestling is rated one of the main winter sports.

Eight bouts will feature tonight's program and Captain McReynolds and C. E. Bilheimer, athletic director at the college, announced that ladies will be admitted free at tonight's card.

At Lancaster, a week ago, the Gettysburg-Franklin Marshall bouts were held in the National Guard armory to accommodate the crowds and many were turned away, so popular is the sport in that city. "There were as many, if not more, women in the audience as men," Captain McReynolds said.

All bouts are held under intercollegiate rules and many bone-crushing holds are barred. The sport is attracting wide interest throughout the country and this is Gettysburg's first experiment with the intercollegiate sport.

Captain McReynolds and his college wrestlers won many converts at their exhibition before the local lodge of Elks, last Thursday, and tonight's audience is expected to be the largest ever to attend a local wrestling bout.

Miss Maggie Donaldson has returned to her home in Orrtanna after a visit of several days with Mr. and Mrs. George Minter, of Arendtsville.

Mr. and Mrs. David Harmon had as Sunday guests in their home near Biglerville: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Guise, of Harrisburg; Lewis Rife, of Bendersville; Adams Shephard, of Table Rock; Miss Ada Moore, of Penbrook, and Harvey Miller, of Biglerville.

Mrs. Ryland Garretson was hostess to the Sisters Sunday School class of the Lutheran church at Biglerville at their March meeting held Monday evening. Six members in addition to the teacher, Mrs. O. C. Rice, and the pastor of the church, the Rev. Henry Starnet, were in attendance. The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Rice.

Word has been received here of the serious illness of Mrs. James G. Miller in the City hospital at Youngstown, Ohio. Before her marriage, Mrs. Miller was Miss Lillian Weaver, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Weaver, of Bendersville.

Mrs. George Wagner, of Table Rock, spent the day as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hartman.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kissel, of Port Royal, spent the week-end in Arendtsville as the guests of Mrs. Kissel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Minter.

Owing to the illness of the Rev. E. W. Brindle, who is suffering with an attack of tonsillitis at his home in Arendtsville, the Lenten services which were announced for Wednesday evening in the Reformed church at Arendtsville and for Thursday evening at Biglerville have been postponed.

Charles Longsdorf, president of the Biglerville National bank, who has been ill at his home in Biglerville for several months, is now able to be about.

The Biglerville boys lost their last basketball game of the season in the last ten seconds of the game when they played Boiling Springs on the former's floor Saturday night. The score was 38-36. The Biglerville girls won with a score of 47-14.

EXPECT DAVIS TO ANNOUNCE FOR SENATE SOON

Washington, Mar. 4 (AP).—Secretary James J. Davis, of the labor department, was expected by some of his closest friends to announce in Pittsburgh before the end of the week his candidacy for United States senator from Pennsylvania.

Although the secretary continued today to maintain silence he was said by some of his associates to be preparing a statement which in a large measure will be his campaign platform. For sentimental reasons he is expected to issue it from Pittsburgh, his home town.

William S. Vare, the Republican leader of Philadelphia, recently denied a senate seat because of campaign expenditures, and Joseph R. Grundy, appointed by the Pennsylvania governor, also are candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Some Pennsylvania politicians here believe that if Davis definitely gets into the race for the Republican nomination Vare will get out.

Rivera's Son and Captain Of Artillery Cross Swords

Pamplona, Spain, March 4 (AP).—Meeting here secretly Monday morning, Miguel Primo de Rivera, son of the former Spanish dictator, and Captain Rexach, of the Spanish artillery corps, fought a duel with swords, in the course of which each was wounded slightly. Miguel was cut once in the wrist and Rexach was cut twice.

They separated when the seconds ruled that Rexach's cuts on the wrist were too serious to permit his continuing the duel, but apparently they were not reconciled. It is rumored they want to fight again.

Slips Over Frontier Miguel came from Paris, where he has been staying with his father and other members of his family, and slipped over the frontier by automobile through a pass in the Pyrenees. He came by appointment to meet Rexach, a challenge having passed between them in Madrid because of what Miguel considered to be insults to his father made by Rexach.

After the duel Miguel left by automobile, presumably for France, and Rexach, whose present whereabouts are unknown, went off in another.

Each is Wounded The duellists arrived in Pamplona before daylight and went immediately to the hall used for the Jai Alai games. After preliminary formalities they began to fight about 8 a. m. In the first round Miguel was wounded in the wrist by Rexach, but insisted he could continue fighting. In the second, Miguel twice wounded Rexach in the wrists and the seconds said he could not go on.

The two parties then went separately to a breakfast of coffee and rolls and departed in different directions. Miguel stopped long enough to send a telegram to his father in Paris, assuring him of his safety.

Hoover in Better Health After Year as President

Washington, March 4 (AP).—As his first year in the White House closes today, friends of President Hoover find him in better health than when he on last March 4 he assumed the burdensome responsibilities of state.

The chief executive's close personal associates remark the vigor with which he attacks alike the multitudinous tasks of office and the morning medicine ball exercises. The letter is held on the south lawn of the White House when the weather permits, and shifts to a court prepared in a basement room when it does not.

Throughout the year President Hoover has maintained a rigorously regular working schedule. He is at his office at 9 o'clock in the morning. He takes off an hour for lunch, returns to his office and remains until 6 or 6:30 p. m.

The hard pace the president set in the construction of dams for trout pools at his camp on the headwaters of the Rapidan river, in Virginia, during last summer and fall, has been considered by his friends to be characteristic. The members of the "Medicine Ball Cabinet" have found him as energetic there.

The medicine ball game, one the president and his friends have invented, is played with a four-pound ball, somewhat on the order of volleyball. The popularity of this form of exercise with the president probably dates from his return trip from South America, when as president-elect, after a strenuous campaign, he exercised frequently with a medicine ball aboard the battleship.

With the returning spring, the president is looking forward pleasantly to resumption of his week-end trips to the summer camp in the Blue Ridge mountains. There it was his custom last year to fish, take long hikes and to ride horseback occasionally.

These trips were discontinued last fall. The roads to his camp in the mountains became almost inaccessible in the wintry weather, and, under the Virginia laws, his favorite sport, fishing, is forbidden. The Virginia legislature offered to pass a measure which would permit him to fish out of season, but Mr. Hoover declined the proffered courtesy.

One of his few trips out of Washington since he was inducted into office was that to Florida, a week or so ago, for deep sea fishing. He spent several days aboard a boat renewing an acquaintance with the deep sea denizens that he had begun shortly after his return from South America, before his inauguration.

Plot to Release 5 Gang Prisoners Barks Their Transfer From Shore

Atlantic City, March 4.—Samuel S. (Cappy) Hoffman, Atlantic City gang leader, his gunbearer and first lieutenant, Tewfik Baroody, their wives, and Anthony J. Zanghi, Philadelphia gangster, are still in the Atlantic City jail at May's Landing under heavy guard, while county officials and state police sought a means to spirit them out of the jail and to state prison at Trenton without outside gangsters attempting a delivery of the prisoners.

It was announced during the day that the gangsters had been removed to the state prison, but it was learned Monday night they were still in the county jail. Officials admitted they had not been moved and said it was learned definitely that plans had been laid by friends of the gangsters to release them between May's Landing and the gates of the state prison.

It was then decided to hold them in the jail until a favorable time to take them secretly to the prison, where Hoffman had been sentenced to serve twelve years, Baroody ten years, their wives three years and Zanghi three years.

Special Prosecutor Herbert G. Bartlett announced Monday that on next Monday he would go before the CAMPAIGN IS REVIEWED BY G. O. P. DAILY

Contest For Gubernatorial Nomination Between Lewis And Brown.

WILLIAMS WANTS SUPREME BENCH

Pennsylvanians seeking enlightenment concerning political conditions in the commonwealth saw some order brought out of the chaotic situation with the circulation last week of nominating petitions for state offices, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger (Republican) which continues:

"Sharp lines were drawn between the two principal candidates for the republican nomination for governor—Francis Shunk Brown, of Philadelphia, and Samuel S. Lewis, of York. At present, more than ten weeks prior to the primary, May 20, Brown and Lewis have the gubernatorial field to themselves, with the exception of Judge J. Ambler Williams, of Norristown, who is circulating petitions for the principal state office.

He Really Aims at Bench "Judge Williams, however, is essentially a jurist, and those who best know him say his ambition is pointed only in the direction of advancement to a place in one of the two Appellate courts of the commonwealth, the superior court or the supreme court.

"His circulation of petitions for governor is looked upon only as a gesture to bring himself and his judicial qualifications more distinctly to the attention of the leaders who have most to say regarding nominations for high court places.

"As a serious contender for the republican nomination for governor, Judge Williams may be eliminated.

"With the attention of the voters just now focused upon the candidacies of Mr. Brown and Mr. Lewis, there are many who contemplate with interest the possible part former Governor Pinchot may take in the primary contest. Lest the republicans of the state forget that he is still a political potentiality, Mr. Pinchot is doing his best to keep himself in the public eye by going about the commonwealth attacking his pet abomination, the public service commission.

"Republicans in every section of the state would like to see Mr. Pinchot become a candidate for governor, but it is doubtful if they exist in numbers sufficient to make any appreciable inroads upon the strength of Mr. Brown and Mr. Lewis.

The former governor last week was plainly undecided regarding his course in connection with the governorship, but is eagerly seeking information concerning the possible effect of his entry into the campaign. He conveys the impression that he would like another try for governor, but is not inclined to waste his time and money upon a forlorn hope. If he sees a chance to win the nomination, he will declare himself a candidate. If the outlook appears hopeless, he will remain on the outside.

"Meanwhile, the forces of Mr. Brown and Mr. Lewis are lining up for the contest. The York leader is strong, with the support of Senator Grundy and the republican state organization, which gives him the advantage in counties where the Grundy-Mellon group dominates the electorate. There are many such counties and if Mr. Lewis can hold them in line they will have a powerful influence upon the final result of the contest for the gubernatorial nomination.

"Rumors are current, however, that some of the counties are wavering in their allegiance to the Grundy-Mellon leadership and that a bloc of the most influential of the state organization leaders is less than lukewarm for Mr. Lewis. Some of those leaders, politicians predict, will announce their support of Mr. Brown before the end of the campaign.

"Rumors or no rumors, it is plain Mr. Lewis, with the Grundy support and his wide experience in politics and as an officer of the commonwealth, is a formidable candidate and will be in the running until the last vote is counted on the night (Continued on Fifth Page)

Majestic

Audiences at the Majestic theatre have an opportunity to learn whether preview critics were correct when they said that "The Virginian" is "The Covered Wagon" of all-talking pictures. The Owen Wister classic of pioneer days on the Western cattle ranges has all the earmarks of an epic film. The manner in which it was acclaimed by previewers indicates that it will go high on the list of really greats. It is at the Majestic tonight and Wednesday.

The film is based on the novel by the same name which brought Owen Wister fame in the 80's, and which has since been termed one of the greatest American romances.

But its greatest claim lies in its general perfection in every department. There is a great cast—Gary Cooper, Walter Huston, Richard Arlen, Mary Brian, Eugene Palette, Chester Conklin, E. H. Calvert, Helen Ware—a superb group of

In the investigation which followed the arrest of the elder Edwards, it was found that he had, during October and December, made three purchases of arsenic at a Taneytown pharmacy. He used the poison, he told a deputy sheriff, to kill polecats under the barn of a man by whom he had been employed.

TAILORS OF DISTINCTIVE CLOTHS

Lenten Regulations are Issued; Starts Wednesday

The regulations for the proper observance of Lent as issued by the Right Rev. Philip R. McDevitt, bishop of the Harrisburg diocese, were read in the Catholic churches in this section Sunday. They become effective tomorrow, Ash Wednesday. Masses will be held in all Catholic churches Wednesday morning and following the masses, the distribution of ashes will be made.

The regulations remain the same as in previous years and are as follows:

"The season of Lent begins on Wednesday and ends at noon of Holy Saturday, April 19. All days of Lent, Sundays alone excepted, are fast days. The law of fast, in conscience and under pain of sin, permits only one full meal a day, which may be taken either at noon or in the evening. It permits in the morning a cup of tea, coffee or chocolate and two ounces of bread, and in the evening a partial meal not exceeding eight ounces.

Law of Abstinence "The law of abstinence forbids to everybody over seven years of age the use of meat on all Wednesdays and Fridays of Lent, on Ember Saturday, and the forenoon of Holy Saturday. It permits the use of butter, cheese, milk and eggs every day, and the use of lard and drippings in the preparation of foods. It likewise permits fish, oysters and other sea foods to be taken with meat on the days when meat is allowed.

"The laws of fast and abstinence together are applicable on all Wednesdays and Fridays of Lent, Ember Saturday and the forenoon of Holy Saturday. No meat is permitted on artists who have proved their worth on the stage and the talking screen. The settings are out-of-doors of the pine-dotted cattle ranges of the old West. There is tense drama, rich romance, rollicking humor—and the theme is, one which deals with an exact chapter in American pioneer days.

Former Evangelist Is Sent To Prison Carlisle, March 4 (AP).—Richard Scull, 35, of Snow Hill, Maryland, who formerly conducted evangelistic services in this section, today was sentenced to serve from three to six years in the eastern penitentiary after pleading guilty to charges involving a 15-year-old girl.

Scull was arrested three weeks ago and was held for court after a hearing. He entered a plea of guilty to the charges yesterday and was sentenced today. He was also directed to pay the costs of the case.

"Lent affords many opportunities for the practice of the virtues without which there can be no salvation. Prayer, penance, mortification and almsdeeds can be practiced in the following manner: Prayer—by frequent Holy Communion; by attendance at daily mass; by attendance at devotions in the parish church; by visits to the Blessed Sacrament, and by daily recitation of the Rosary; penance and mortification—by abstaining from strong drink; by refraining from attendance at places of amusement, dances, moving pictures and theatricals; and by abstinence from various luxuries; almsdeeds—by generosity to worthy causes that look to the progress of religion, education and the care of the poor, the sick and the orphans."

The summary of the Lenten regulations for those who are bound by the laws of fast and abstinence is as follows: "Sundays, three full meals with meat; Mondays, one full meal with meat; Tuesdays, one full meal with meat; Wednesdays, one full meal without meat and two collations; Thursdays, one full meal with meat and two collations; Fridays, one full meal without meat and two collations; Saturdays, one full meal with meat and two collations. Meat is not allowed on Ember Saturday, nor on the forenoon of Holy Saturday."

No Dispensations "Exemptions from the law of fast include those persons who are under twenty-one years of age, those who have completed their fifty-ninth year, the sick and convalescents, those who are engaged in hard labor or duties which exhaust their physical strength, and those who are bearing or nursing infants.

By Reason of a Papal Indult, working men and their families may eat meat on any day of Lent except Friday, Ash Wednesday and the forenoon of Holy Saturday. According to this dispensation, those members of the family who are bound to fast may eat meat only once a day on the days when meat is allowed."

Practice Virtues "The bishop's message also includes the following: "On the occasion of the reading of the Lenten regulations, the faithful should be taught that, though the church relaxes the strict fast and abstinence, she can grant no one a dispensation from the penitential spirit of Lent. Therefore, those who are allowed during Lent to take food in quantity and kind as is their custom, must not forget that the doing of penance is of obligation on every human being. Unless you do penance," says our Divine Lord, "you shall likewise perish."

"Lent affords many opportunities for the practice of the virtues without which there can be no salvation. Prayer, penance, mortification and almsdeeds can be practiced in the following manner: Prayer—by frequent Holy Communion; by attendance at daily mass; by attendance at devotions in the parish church; by visits to the Blessed Sacrament, and by daily recitation of the Rosary; penance and mortification—by abstaining from strong drink; by refraining from attendance at places of amusement, dances, moving pictures and theatricals; and by abstinence from various luxuries; almsdeeds—by generosity to worthy causes that look to the progress of religion, education and the care of the poor, the sick and the orphans."

The summary of the Lenten regulations for those who are bound by the laws of fast and abstinence is as follows: "Sundays, three full meals with meat; Mondays, one full meal with meat; Tuesdays, one full meal with meat; Wednesdays, one full meal without meat and two collations; Thursdays, one full meal with meat and two collations; Fridays, one full meal without meat and two collations; Saturdays, one full meal with meat and two collations. Meat is not allowed on Ember Saturday, nor on the forenoon of Holy Saturday."

THE BIG SHOT

by FRANK L. PACKARD -

SYNOPSIS: Phil Martin becomes the greatest menace to the Big Shot's underworld dynasty, even greater than the war with rivals. Enid learns the gang knows of the incriminating evidence Shive Frank left behind him to damn the Big Shot. Determined to thwart the Big Shot and save Phil, she returns to her home. The Big Shot visits her. She shows him the photograph of her brother taken before he went to war; it suggests nothing to him and he insists she is mistaken. He is convinced that Enid's story about writing a book and mistaking him for her missing brother is true. Then he tells her he is glad he isn't her brother; he loves her.

Chapter 26

"HE-MAN LOVE"

Enid caught her breath. She dared not voice the meaning she read in the Big Shot's statement. "You—your feelings—were perhaps natural," she faltered. "We are brother and sister. You would instinctively be drawn to me even though you do not remember me." The Big Shot shook his head.

frightened. Her hands went to her temples. "And I?" She tried to keep her voice steady. "Suppose it were true that you were not Roy, that you were a man who had been a criminal all his life—what do you imagine my feelings would be toward such a man?"

"Aw, I'm not worrying about that!" he said complacently. "A girl who pulled what you did the night before last would get used to that."

Her hands came down to her sides—and clenched. "You are wrong!" she said passionately. "If you were not my brother who had been cruelly and abominably victimized, I should hate you and despise you for what you are and what you have done—and I would crush you if I could!"

He laughed at her in a half-amused, half-tolerant way. "You're a little spitfire, aren't you? That's one thing I love you for. And you've got more sand and nerve than any other girl I've ever met—and that's another reason. And you are you—and that's the whole reason. You think you mean what you!"

Her shoulders had dropped suddenly, her lips were trembling. She had never dreamed that anything like this could happen. "You are my brother," she said miserably. "No," he said; "and that's my first job on the way to the altar—to prove that I'm not!"

"You can't prove what isn't true," she answered. "If you could, don't you know that I would expose you?" "Oh, no, you wouldn't!" he returned complacently. "Don't forget that you're wanted by the police yourself. Don't forget the girl bandit. And that helps us to get away on an even start too, doesn't it?"

She made no answer, but as he came toward her again, his hand outstretched, she groped out behind her for the desk chair and sank into it.

"Don't touch me!" she whispered. He stared at her for a moment contemplatively—and then abruptly thrust his hands into his pockets.

"I get you, kid. It's kind of a jolt—being made love to by a guy that you think is your own brother. Sure, it's raw for you—I can see that. But, say, don't you worry—you won't hear another love peep out of me until I've shown you that I'm handing you the straight goods. So it's up to me. But after that—well, you've heard me! I'm not going to lose any sleep about not getting you—some way or other. See?"

"It is quite useless to discuss that phase of it"—her voice was cool and reliant again—"because it can never exist. You are Roy Howard. There could be no proof, but only false testimony to the contrary."

He swung himself onto the edge of the desk, and, lighting a cigarette, grinned at her now quizzically. "You're pretty sure of yourself aren't you?" he inquired. "Well, so am I—of myself. But the difference is that I know, and you only think you do. Let's go to it. That's the one reason, outside of that little check—that I had to put over, why I'm here. Listen!

"What I told you about losing my memory and coming back from the war is all true—but you believe that, too. What you don't believe is that I was born in Chicago and lived there—but that's also true. And I'll tell you how I know it. Sometimes I've had little flashes of memory come over me, queer little bits of scenes. You get me? Police stuff! That wouldn't have been in Winnipeg, would it? Was your brother ever run in there by the police?"

She did not answer him for a moment. For the first time her certainty and assurance wavered but only for an instant—only until she could think clearly again. These fragments of scenes of the past were not actual but imaginary. Izzy Myers and the Kanes again. Why, people even in normal health came to believe their own fabrications if they repeated them often enough! She told him so.

"Yeh?" he said. "You don't let go easily, do you? Maybe if I let you take my finger prints and send them to Chicago you'd change your mind."

"I wish you would!" she returned quickly. "I'm sure there are none there that would have the same classification."

"Nothing doing!" he exclaimed with a short laugh. "I'm not asking for trouble. Maybe I shouldn't have mentioned it, but I had something else in mind that's like that sort of identification in a way. It's not only people's fingers. Most people carry around on their bodies some little distinctive mark that they were either born with or else collected in the shape of scars and cuts and that sort of thing while they were kids. Do you believe that?"

"A great many people do, of course," she admitted. "But that has nothing to do with the present case. You—Roy—didn't have any."

"You mean you don't know of any," he amended coolly. "But to his nurse, say—she ought to know, eh?"

Enid nodded. "I asked you for her address in Maine this morning—remember?"

"Yes," she said. "Well, that's why!" he said. "I telegraphed her to call you up on the long distance here between half-past eight and half-past nine to-night, and—"

The telephone was ringing. The Big Shot laughed. "There's your Martha now," he said. "Ask her about it!"

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

"And O'er His Heart
A SHADOW FELL,"
(Edgar Allan Poe, 1809-1849)

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW
By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper form, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Local Items.—An Uncle Tom's Cabin troupe gave a performance on Thursday evening at the Opera House.

Gov. Hoyt has commissioned Jacob A. Kitzmiller, Esq., Notary Public for Gettysburg for another term of three years.

A canvass of the students of Pennsylvania college shows that 53 prefer Blaine for president, 27 Bayard, 7 Grant, 3 Sherman, 1 no choice, Tilden nowhere.

"Burning Embers" at McClellan's opera house tonight.

Luther M. Minnigh, of this place, has rented the house of Samuel Seabrook in Emmitsburg, Md., where he will open a confectionery, cake bakery, and ice cream saloon about the 10th of April.

The Citizens' Cornet band of New Oxford have purchased several new and fine instruments and a superior tenor drum.

Five college students were suspended last week for violation of the rules forbidding students to absent themselves from the building at night without permission.

The congregations of St. James and the Reformed churches having sold part of the graveyard lot east of the jail, persons having friends or relatives buried there are requested to remove them on and after March 20.

S. McC. Swope, Esq., and Capt. John F. McCreary on Saturday evening week gave a series of select readings in Wolford's Hall, York Springs, for the benefit of the band. The Cornet says the "oratory" would have done honor to a Murdoch or a Booth.

A year or more ago Miss Adeline Sager, of Philadelphia, in her will bequeathed $20,000 to endow a professorship in Pennsylvania college to be called the "Sager Professorship."

The executor of Miss Sager's estate a few weeks ago presented to the college a fine portrait of the testatrix's father, Michael Sager.

G. A. R. Fair.—The fair for charitable purposes, under the auspices of Corporal Skelly Post, closed on Tuesday night. The receipts were $317 and the net proceeds will be about $250. The large cake, donated by the Hanover Post, was purchased by N. G. Wilson and Wm. T. Ziegler and distributed among the ladies who conducted the fair. The large cake, donated by John Gruel, containing a valuable gold ring presented by Penrose Myers, brought $37.50 and was drawn by T. T. Tate. A handsome set of table knives, presented by a member of Post No. 46, Philadelphia, was drawn by Jacob Wampler.

At a meeting of the Post on Monday night the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of Corporal Skelly Post, No. 9, G. A. R. Department of Pennsylvania, are cordially returned to those ladies of Gettysburg, whose exertions and efforts have made the fair recently held for the benefit of the post, so completely successful—to the Southern Tier Band of Gettysburg, for the excellent music gratuitously furnished by them—and to the community for their liberal patronage.

New Ordinance.—The Town Council has passed a stringent ordinance under which the Borough proposes to assume police duty at the railroad depot. It aims to break up a nuisance of which passengers and railroad officials have long complained, and which ought to be abated. It proposes a fine of $5, or 24 hours imprisonment, for congregating about the depot by persons having "no particular business" there. The boys and girls had better look out.

Death of Mrs. Van Orsdell.—Mrs. Mary Van Orsdell, widow of Hezekiah Van Orsdell, died last week at the "Home of the Aged" of the M. E. Church in Baltimore, in the 86th year of her age. She resided in Gettysburg for a number of years. Mr. Van Orsdell was postmaster from 1840 to 1844, and a "local" preacher of the Methodist church. He moved to Baltimore with his wife some years since, and ten years ago, they entered the home of the aged, being among the first inmates of that institution. Mr. Van Orsdell died about four years ago.

Buttons.—By Mary Graham Bonner

"I've turned the time 'way ahead," said the Little Black Clock, "and we're going to make one or two calls."

Unusually John and Peggy didn't like to make calls. Sometimes they mother would take them to see some people where they would have to wear their best clothes and keep rather quiet and where it would be ever so long before they would even be offered a piece of cake. But calls with the Little Black Clock were different.

They got into a plane and almost before they had started it almost they were landing again.

They had landed near a very handsome house. It was large and instead of a garage in the back there was a great hangar in which were a number of planes.

They went inside the house and the Little Black Clock pressed a button. He seemed to understand everything. In a minute there host came forward.

"So glad to see you all," he said. "When number three button rang I new it was my friend the Clock, bringing John and Peggy with him."

"Let's have something to eat. I'll press number five button. That will tell the cook that we want ice cream made at once and a cake baked for our honored guests."

"Oh, we probably couldn't stay that long," said Peggy.

"Yes, indeed, you could! It won't take more than a minute or two to make the ice cream and freeze it and bake the cake."

Almost before he had finished speaking the ice cream and the cake were brought.

"By the way," he said, "it's a little chilly here. I'll press number nine button, and we'll have some electric heat in a flash."

The Little Black Clock was laughing. "You'd better tell our young friends how you manage," he told their host.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

THE ARTIST

Once you get the name of artist, you're the outcast of the clan. You may sing or paint a picture, but you're not a business man. You may be a violinist, but they'll look for nothing more. They won't believe you understand that two and two are four. And people will suspect you and be sure your work is bad. If ever they discover that you've also learned to add.

Strangers seem to have the notion that artistic souls must be a freakish type of creatures which have eyes but cannot see; That their stock of worldly wisdom must be limited to art. So in ordinary matters they can't possibly be smart.

Should an artist once correctly ten from twenty-three subtract Men will tell it to their neighbors as a most astounding fact!

In their every day discussions, merchants shrewd and wise and vain Often voice the one conclusion that an artist isn't sane.

And they laugh about his methods and they think his manners strange, As if they hadn't noticed that he always counts his change.

In his line he may be clever, but upon him there's a ban. He can have no useful knowledge for he's not a business man!

When the artist journeys onward and St. Peter at the gate Asks to look his records over I believe he'll find them straight.

There may be some details missing which he carelessly forgot And perhaps some glaring errors he'll correct upon the spot.

But I'll bet St. Peter greets him in the friendliest way he can And passes him to glory, though he's not a business man.

Little Jack Rabbit

By David Cory

"Hello, what's this?" all of a sudden cried the little rabbit, suddenly spying a foot print in the soft earth.

"Guess the Farmer's Boy has been walking here in his bare feet."

"Guess again," cawed Professor Jim Crow, who, you remember in the last story, had been talking to our little rabbit.

"Well, whose foot print is it?" went on the little bunny, stooping lower to look more closely.

"Ha, ha, caw, caw!" went the old professor bird, "I can come pretty near telling from way up here, but I'll make sure," and fixing more securely on his beak his gold rimmed spectacles, he fluttered down to the ground. "The Big Brown Bear's!" the next moment exclaimed the old crow.

"Dear me, I should have known it," exclaimed the little rabbit. "The Farmer's Boy has too small a foot to make so big a print."

"At two months of age the Big Brown Bear's foot print would have been even smaller than the Farmer Boy's," went on the old Crow. "You see, when the Big Brown Bear was two months old he was no larger than you, Bunnikins? Did you know that?"

"No, I didn't," answered the truthful little bunny. "Maybe I'm dreadfully ignorant."

"Well, let me teach you something," continued the good professor bird, and opening his Wisdom Book, he began:

"The Big Brown Bear puts his whole foot on the ground, while all members of the dog and cat families walk wholly on their toes."

"Gracious me," sighed the little bunny. "Go on and read some more. I feel like a no-nothing!"

"Oh, I know the rest by heart," chuckled the old Crow, closing his Wisdom Book with a snap. "When the Big Brown Bear came into the world, about the middle of winter, he was no larger than a rat. It was 40 days before he could open his eyes, and two months before he could scramble out of his den. As I said before, when he first began to walk he was about your size, Bunnikins!"

"Well, he has grown a lot since," paws, strong jaws and strong

"I'm not afraid of the Big Brown Bear," cried the little rabbit.

"The Big Brown Bear is kind and good, And loves his home in the lone wild-wood."

He's very fond of fruit and honey, And never knows where to spend his money."

CAMPAIGN IS

of May 20. If he can hold intact the support of the state organization he will be hard to defeat.

"Up to this point the campaign has been conducted with more or less good humor. There has been little personal bickering or unearthing of musty political skeletons. The high character and unquestioned probity of the candidates would appear to make politics of such nature undesirable in the campaign.

"The first piece of unsavory politics to make its appearance was the presentation, through some unidentified source, of a circular charging Mr. Lewis with accepting two checks for large sums as his part of a split of state funds. The York leader is on record as saying the checks were given him for services to the state and in view of his reputation as an honorable state official the republican voters probably will take his word. The 'check and double-check' circular will have little effect upon the campaign.

"Mr. Brown will have the support of the great mass of the republican voters of Philadelphia and is reported to be making strong inroads upon the Lewis strength up-state. However the Philadelphia organization may be divided upon the senatorship, it appears certain at present the former attorney general can count upon a huge majority in the metropolitan district.

"The former attorney general is reported to have fallen heir to the old Baker-Beldeman organization. Several months ago representatives of that group from thirty counties held a convention at an up-state point and tried to induce Supreme Court Justice Kephart to become a candidate for governor. Failing in that effort they have, it is reported upon unquestioned authority, determined to support Mr. Brown.

"Managers of the Brown campaign are counting for their candidate the heavy republican vote of Lackawanna, Luzerne, Schuylkill and other counties of the anthracite belt. They admit, however, that Mr. Pinchot, should he become a candidate, will receive many votes from the hard-coal electorate.

"Brown managers also appear convinced that the entry into the campaign of Mr. Pinchot would make heavier going for Mr. Lewis. The former governor would, these political sages say, cut deeply into the Lewis strength in many of the most populous of the up-state counties.

"However, an accurate survey of conditions cannot be made until after Mr. Pinchot has made his decision. It is the consensus among politicians here at present that a three-cornered contest between Lewis, Pinchot and Brown would virtually insure the nomination of the Philadelphian.

"Until William S. Vare has made his final decision the contest for the senatorial nomination will be subordinated in interest to that for the governorship. Senator Grundy is the only candidate actually in the field, although nominating petitions for Mr. Vare are in circulation. A revival of interest in the senatorial race would follow a decision by Vare to remain a candidate and an announcement by Mr. Pinchot that he also would have another try for the senatorship."

A Splendid Premium FREE To Purchasers of

COPPER-CLAD RANGES

During Our Special Demonstration and Sale

Week of March 4 to 8

EVEN if no premium were offered, you would be getting a wonderful value, in selecting the Copper-Clad Range for your home.

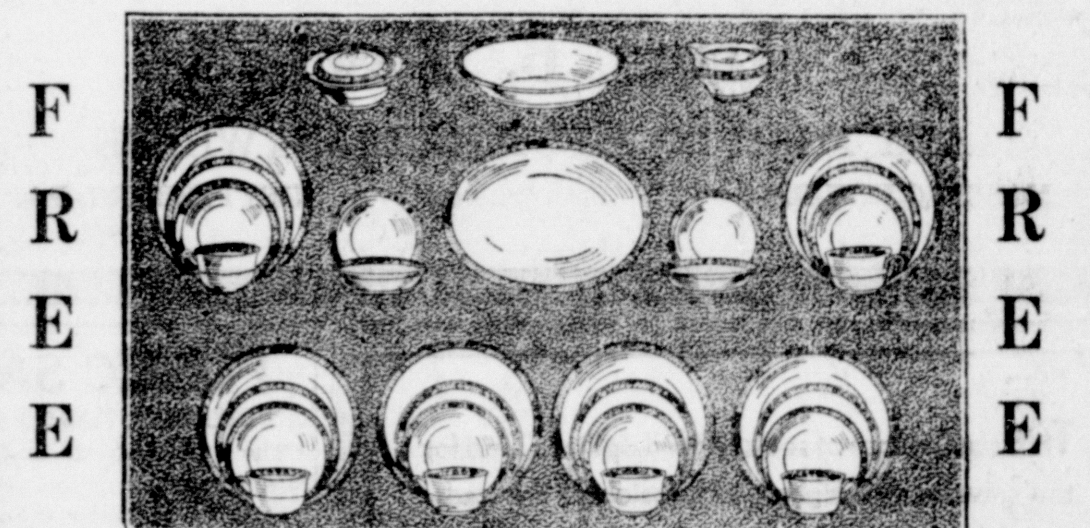

The Copper-Clad is the only range that is lined with pure sheet copper—permanently protected against inside rust. Its oven is tighter and more strongly built than any other oven—it lasts longer and bakes better.

The Copper-Clad has beauty of design and refinement of detail not even attempted in other ranges.

Come in next week, while the Copper-Clad Specialist is here, and see the many exclusive features and advantages of the Copper-Clad.

You'll be amazed at the fact that so fine a range can be secured at so low a price—a price no higher than that asked for ranges that do not even approach Copper-Clad quality.

35-Piece China Dinner Set

Just think of it, a handsome 35-piece China Dinner Set absolutely FREE with each Copper-Clad Range purchased during our Special Demonstration and Sale. It is a premium worthy of so fine a range. Every piece is of select stock, pure white, and flawless, delicate in design and tastefully decorated in colors—far superior to the grade usually given as premiums.

The set consists of—6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 dinner plates, 6 salad plates, 6 fruit dishes, 1 large platter, 1 vegetable dish, 1 cream pitcher, sugar bowl and cover. Sets of this quality would easily retail at $12 each. Buy your Copper-Clad during our Special Demonstration and Sale, March 4 to 8 and get a China Dinner Set FREE.

Copper Lining

is a permanent protection against inside rust. Porcelain (glass) lining is not a permanent protection against inside rust.

The copper-lined Copper-Clad Range (patented) costs you no more than a porcelain (glass) lined range, but it is worth more—MUCH MORE.

It Is Easy To End Fat

That is, in the right way, used by modern physicians. No abnormal exercise or diet, but help to a gland that is weak. The recent large reduction in excess fat has been largely due to that method.

This modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. In almost every circle you can see the amazing change it brings. If over-fat, you owe yourself a trial of Marmola. Don't remain abnormal. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Each box states the formula and tells the reasons for results. Start growing thin as your friends have done, at once.
